Italians love to travel with style

Italians love to travel in style. And imagination is part of it. Just think of Michelangelo and his Sistine Chapel.

Travelling in style is part of the Italian tradition and Alitalia knows it: that's why Italians choose Alitalia as their preferred airline.

Alitalia: competitive fares, quality service and punctuality.

Three weekly flights, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday with departures from Sydney and Melbourne and once in Rome a wide choice of connections to Italian or European cities.

HERE WE GO; this is a real hot potato. What comes first - club or country?

Do we deprive the Ericsson Cup of the best players available in order to project a successful national team programme or do we, in fact, ensure that our domestic league has first priority? Some would tell you that we can do both, simply by building the national team programme around the league.

Sounds easy, doesn't it. All we then have to do is to make sure that we get the big international fixture dates in, make adjustments to the Ericsson Cup schedule - and, hey presto!

OK, so what happened with the re-scheduling of the Grand Final date, now brought forward by two weeks to May 26?

A little thing called an Olympic elimination series with the runners-up from CONCACAF, that's what.

Whichever way you look at it that particular series was always going to cause problems but the real problem has come about by the very fact of Australia's international success.

And that is just at Olyroo level - what about the big guys?

You could say that we should build our international season in the Ericsson Cup off season.

Simple answer, simple solution. But that wouldn't work either because we want to play against European teams - and their main international season is during their domestic leagues.

In the off season they have little things like European Championships and World Cups to worry about two out of every four years and then in the other two they also like to toss in an overseas tour to help blood young players.

Australia, unfortunately, just isn't on the shopping lists of the Englishs, Frances, Germans and Italians.

The game against Scotland only came after ten years of hustling and bustling from the ASF to finally get a fixture.

So if we accept the fact of life that we have to take the international crumbs then does that mean that we have to adjust the Ericsson Cup to suit?

After all, it is by playing on a world stage that the players are projected in their careers and the clubs attract the big transfer fees.

But instead of re-inventing the wheel why don't we take a leaf out of the books of Italy and England where clubs are very definitely put first - not sometimes, but always.

Because without them there would be no sport.

It is clubs like Marconi which pay the player's wages which allow them to take part in national programmes.

The Socceroos have to fit their scheduling around the league and not let the schmozzle of this season's disruptions ever happen again.

It isn't an easy task, despite what has just been written, and those who pilot the national team have a hard job - but that's life in the real world.

BULGING NET: a South Melbourne shot hits the back of the net during a game at the Bob Jane Stadium. But big Bobby Catlin will be keen to erase memories of the Canberra Cosmos game with a clean sheet against the Blues tonight.

Changing Times

FOR FRANCIS Awaritefe tonight's game is a sure sign of changing times.

Just a year ago he was a PART of the South Melbourne side which knocked Sydney United out of the Top Six - as our photo with his adoring fans shows.

But times have changed and now the tall English striker is part of Marconi's push towards the top.

And in under a season he has become almost a cult figure with the Stallion fans - particularly amongst the ever increasing army of girl fans with whom he is regarded as something of a 'spunk'.

That's the way football goes; one minute you are one club's favourite, then you are out of contention and then it's off to another club.

Bobby Catlin has also found that out.

He started last season off in top form but copped the blame for the side's mid-season slump and was dropped by then-coach Andrea Icardi.

But the former AC Milan player brought him back to the first team towards the end and he has retained his place since.

So much so that this season he has been an ever-present in the side.

That doesn't mean that he doesn't make the occasional mistake.

"I'll stick my hand up for that first goal," he told me after the Canberra game.

"I went out to punch the ball and didn't get a clean hit. So, it was my fault - but really, I'd been getting whacked by the Cosmos players all game."

Despite that one mistake Catlin has kept Marconi in the game so many times this season that his fans have lost count. Up front in the attack or on the back line in goals the Marconi stars are finding out that it really is a changing game.

Both Francis and Bobby have points to prove tonight, if for different reasons.

Off The Bomber's Bench

THE GAME against Canberra certainly proved a few things to players, fans and coaching staff.

One of those is just how hard it is to play at the top of the competition. In many ways it's a lot easier to come from behind and so I can only admire UTS Olympic which was at the top of the table for so long - they know what hard yards are all about.

We found out against Canberra just how hard it is because everyone lifts their game when they play you.

Going into even the last five seconds of that game Canberra were throwing in tackles which were so fierce in their intensity.

The score was 2-2 and they were still playing as if it was the first minute of a Grand Final.

That is one of the main things which we have discovered.

None of the players want to surrender top spot on the competition table; nobody goes in with any ideas of complacency but simply put - the other teams are sometimes playing us with more intensity.

That is something we have to learn, and learn quickly.

We also have to play with intensity - in every game.

We can do it when we play the top teams, teams like Olympic and Sydney United, but we struggle when we play against the Wollongongs and Canberras.

This time, despite taking a two goal lead, we got caught up by their drive and enthusiasm and paid a dear price.

Fortunately that single result didn't knock us off the top and we still have control of our own destiny.

But we have to play every game which is left like it is a Grand Final.

If we do that then we have the talent at Marconi to do what everyone expects.

If we don't, then that will be that.

This season we have been extremely consistent, if not always brilliant.

But it isn't brilliance which wins championships it is rolling up your sleeves and going out there to do all the hard things - over ninety minutes - and playing with the sort of consistency which has the other teams on the back pedal.

We still aren't used to being in pole position but the players do like it - and we all want to continue there.

But whatever happens in during the run home to the last round this has been a very successful year at the club.

I'd like to take this opportunity to really thank all of the club's sponsors - you have been brilliant. I also want to thank the guys who the game is all about - the spectators.

Our fans have been magnificent.

We need you for another two home league games, we need you to raise off the roof of the Stadium tonight against South Melbourne and then we need you to come back and do it again against West Adelaide.

I promise you that for our part we'll do the business of the park - we are doing it for you.

EARLIER THIS SEASON:

Marconi 2 South Melbourne 1
South Melbourne 1 Marconi 4
CURRENT FORM: Stung by Adelaide City and Canberra Cosmos it's time to shut the stable gate. This is a vital game for Marconi and the prize at the end of the rainbow is Against Canberra the Stallions were stunned by a second half fight back but with that experience under their belt they should be well equipped to handle everything that the Blues throw at them. With Francis Awaritefe back and a near full strength line-up available you would have to go for a home win. PREDICTION: A Stallions home win - but after the last game I'm frightened of jinxing players by predicting scores and outcomes!

LOOK AT the big overseas clubs; AC Milan, Manchester United, Glasgow Rangers or Bayern Munich.

How many players from their youth sides ever graduate to playing in the top flight - with that same club?

It seems almost a case of if you want to make it with a big club in Europe then you have to go elsewhere to break into first team football - and then wait for that big money transfer to come along.

And Manfred Schaefer is wary of that happening at Bosley Park.

"What is the point of having a youth team if the players don't get a chance?" he asks.

"This season it has been difficult because we had to bring credibility back to the club.

"Also, I've worked with about 15 or 16 players for most of the year - and that makes it hard for youth team players.

"But last week I brought Darren McDonald into the first team squad.

"I wanted to have a good look at him and see how he played under pressure.

"But I wouldn't throw anybody into a full game like that and instead try to put the younger lads on for ten or fifteen minutes to give them the feel for first team football."

And with Mike Smith out for the rest of the season Manfred Schaefer knows full well that he has to draft in another player to cover him.

So far he has watched a few youngsters closely - and that's a good sign because it proves there is a future at the Marconi Stadium home of the Stallions for the very best.

Regardless of age.

shows Kiwi international Vaughan Covery what tight marking is all about.

He has also been rated one of the best players in the Marconi line-up in recent weeks and is now firmly established at the club.

Tonight he gets the opportunity for another good game – and is sure to keep Coveny and his Blues team-mate Paul Trimboli under close scrutiny.
